BUFFALOES TO BATTLE SQUAD FAMED HENRYS

Burton's Proteges Doing Secret Practice Rest Of This Week

NATIONAL CHAMPS

Huge Sum Being Paid To Bring Finest Brand Of Basketball

Coach S. D. Burton announced Saturday that arrangements had been completed to bring the Henrys of Wichita, Kans., national basketball champions for the last three years, here for a two game series Friday and Saturday nights, January 27 and 28.

In obtaining this group of all-American stars, Burton is bringing to Canyon and West Texas what promises to be one of the greatest exhibitions of basketball yet to thrill the thousands of Buffalo admirers.

Both the Henrys and the Buffaloes are potential contenders for the national title this year.

All Americans on Squad

An independent amateur team, the colorful Henrys is composed of players who have at one time or another been named on an all-American squad. Tom Pickell, 6 feet, 6 inches, center, will be the first opponent of the year to seriously oppose Joe Fortenberry for tip-off supremacy. Capt. Berry Dunham, bouncing guard, and Melvin Miller, Grecian-nosed forward, are "honest-to-goodness" all-Americans.

The Buffaloes began secret practice at Buffalo Gym yesterday in preparation for the "crucial" games of the year. Burton was reticent about disclosing the meaning of barred doors from now until Friday night, but admitted that the Buffalo squad was not being spared in the practice sessions.

It is possible that he intends to spring a complete surprise on local fans as well as the skillful Henrys.

Huge Sum Being Paid

The large expenditure necessary to bring the national champs here has made imperative a student admission charge in addition to the regular blanket tax. More than $250 above the scheduled price to be paid the Ada, Okla., Teachers, who cancelled their games here for last night and tonight because of a flu epidemic, is being paid the Henrys.

A nominal charge of twenty-five cents will be made students on presentation of the regular blanket tax. A general admission charge of seventy-five cents will be made the public. Both charges include federal tax.

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale at the Jarrett Drug store and at the office of Travis Shaw at the College.

Men Outnumber the Women Among Students New Quarter

Contrary to enrollment precedents for teachers colleges, the men outnumbered the co-eds two to one among the 51 new freshmen students who enrolled in the West Texas State Teachers College at the beginning of the winter term.

The total number of new students for the term was 121, with 61 of this number men and the remaining 60 women.

Four new graduate students were enrolled, bringing the total number in the Teachers College graduate school to 19 for the current school year. The four new members of school are: Henry Davis, graduate of George Peabody College; Jordan Miller, W. T. graduate; Mrs. T. H. Knighton formerly a member of the Training School at San Marcos; and Miss Elva Fronabarger, former instructor in the primary department of W. T.'s Demonstration School.

CARL LAUGHERY BUYS THE CITY MARKET

Carl Laughery has bought the City Market from J. M. Vetesk and took charge of the business Tuesday. Mr. Laughery has been connected with this market for a number of years and was joint owner with W. D. Pike until recently when the business was sold to Mr. Vetesk.

Mr. Vetesk will continue his market at the Piggly Wiggly.

Wheat Damaged by High Wind Saturday —Moisture Needed

Wheat over the Plains was damaged somewhat Saturday by the high wind from the Southwest which swept over this section. Storms have been reported in Colorado, Oklahoma and Central Texas during the past week, which has caused considerable wind for the Plains.

Old time residents state that the wind Saturday was the worst they have ever witnessed during the month of January. The high winds usually do not come until March.

Many fences were damaged by weeds and sand piling up against them during the wind.

Many farmers have been runnng drills through their wheat as a means of protection for another wind which may be expected unless moisture comes in the near future.

Moral Strength Is Developed by Times Serious Depression

Reviewing conditions of today, and comparing these conditions with other periods of depression was the subject of discussion by W. A. Warren at Rotary Tuesday. Development of personal and moral strength to meet the demands of these strenuous times was the mission of the Rotary clubs and other service clubs, stated Mr. Warren.

A chart was displayed showing business conditions in America since 1817. This showed 1931 to have been the lowest period in the history of this country. Increased activities throughout the country gave authorities and students the basis for prediction of a steady increase until 1935 when another peak would be reached. A decline would then likely start to continue to 1942, when another period of depresson would result.

The speaker called attention to an authentic report of the world's condition 74 years ago, and the parallel of conditions today. He pictured the destruction resulting from the Civil War, and courage of the men as they returned from war to rebuild their homes and fortunes. This generation has been enjoying the fruits of their labors, and now are called upon to show the same courage as shown by the men of that time.

Visitors present Tuesday were Don Hunsaker, Arthur Osgood, Jack Allen, C. O. Williams, Oscar Sewart, Frank Clowe, Marvin J. Paul, Jesse Rogers, H. F. Lauder and M. R. Lindsay, all of Amarillo.

Marvin Paul and Oscar Sewart are Boy Scout executives from Amarillo and met with the Rotary committee in charge of this work to re-organize the work here. The Rotary Club sponsors the Boy Scout work in Canyon.

Goodnight Trail Is Designated Across Palo Duro Canyon

Designation of the Goodnight Trail from Canyon aeross the Palo Duro canyon to the old Goodnight ranch in Armstrong county was made Monday in a resolution passed by the House of Representatives in a memorial honoring Col. Charles C. Goodnight. Designation of the Trail was first suggested by Mrs. Phebe K. Warner of Claude and further stressed last fall at the cornerstone laying of the Museum Building by J. O. Guleke of Amarillo.

The resolution was introduced in the House of Representative H. K. Stanfield of this district.

Fast Driving on Highway Thru City Protest is Made

Since stop signs have been placed along the highway in the east part of town, fast driving has resulted on the part of local people as well as through traffic. Students crossing Fourth and Third avenues on their way to town are in danger as a result of the speeding cars on the highway. Protest has been made to the highway department through the City Commission and the Chamber of Commerce, asking that "slow" signs and "school" signs be erected along the highway between Second and Seventh avenues.

Miss Aline Horton of Earth, Texas was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. E. C. McKenzie Sunday.

FIRE LOSSES ARE TOO HIGH IN PAST YEAR

Mayor C. R. Burrow In Receipt of Letter From State

URGES MORE CARE

Fire Rates May Be Increased Because of Losses

The fire insurance rate of Canyon is likely to be increased owing to the excessive losses the past year, according to a letter from Raymond S. Mauk, fire insurance commissioner addressed to Mayor C. R. Burrow. The following is a copy of the letter:

The monthly fire reports as made to this Department by your local fire marshall during the year 1932 indicates that the fire losses of your city were excessive.

We are all aware of this fact—"the larger the loss the greater the cost." This applies to every commodity as it does to insurance. It is for this reason that this Department is extremely anxious to reduce our annual fire waste.

Fire is expensive and may be properly termed as gross extravagance, and to some extent is the result of indifference on the part of most of us. When a business or factory fire occurs, stockholders receive no more dividends; the employees are thrown out of work, and unable to find employment elsewhere. They and their families become, in many instances, public charges; payments on mortgages, taxes, merchandise, and power cease. And of greater importance, fire takes human life.

Our annual fire waste can be reduced by hard work and sincere effort in the following manner: First: Close inspection of all properties by the local fire marshal and local insurance agents. It is in this manner that fire hazards are corrected or removed, and the amount of insurance thereon kept within close proximity of present day values and the "profit taken out of fires." Second: An immediate and thorough investigation of each fire as a means of determining the cause of same, and vigorous prosecution of all cases where incendiarism is present. This is one of the most effective deterrents of the crime of Arson. Fire prevention, like charity, begins at home. It is an individual obligation. There must be a continuous educational campaign in behalf of fire prevention if we keep our losses low.

We urge the support and cooperation of all of your people in behalf of this most worthy undertaking, and if they will give it to you and this Department, we know that you will agree that we will soon reduce the cost of insurance to them, for as above stated—"more loss means more cost."

Sixty Barrels of Flour Received By Red Cross Chapter

Sixty barrels of flour has been received by the Randall County Red Cross Chapter, according to C. H. Jarrett, chairman of the Chapter. The flour was turned over to Judge S. B. Orton, who has charge of the distribution of all supplies, including the Red Cross, the county and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans.

Relief cases in the county are reported to be well taken care of this winter under the arrangement which has been devised.

Certified Seed Is Received and Ready for County Farmers

County Agent W. H. Upchurch has received the first shipment of certified seed which he will have for sale at cost to the farmers of the county. The seed is being financed by the Chamber of Commerce, as has been the case during the past four years.

Mr. Upchurch handled 32,000 pounds of certified seed last year, which was a large gain over any previous year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Cash spent the week end in Hereford.

PAYMENT OF TAXES URGED BY CITIZENS

Tuesday Is last Day to Make Payment of Taxes

PAY CAR TAGS

Schools On Cash Basis But Need Money for Term

Tax paying time is rapidly drawing to a close, and efforts will be made this week by collectors to get in as much money as possible by next Tuesday night when the official time closes the rolls for this year, and makes delinquent all taxes which are not paid.

Activities in the office of Bob Barnett, county tax collector, have increased during the past few days. While collections are runing behind the totals of last year, it is believed that by Tuesday night the normal amount of taxes will be collected.

All automobile owners must equip their cars with new 1933 license tags by next Wednesday or be subject to a fine for operating a car without license from the state.

Tax paying time for the Canyon Independent School District comes to a close Tuesday. The district has been able to collect sufficient money so far this year to remain on a cash basis, and citizens are being urged to pay their taxes by next Tuesday in order that the schools may continue uninterrupted for the remainder of the year.

Farm Loans Will Be Available at the Local Banks

United States government farm crop loans will be available within a short time, states W. C. Black, chairman of the local committee which will handle these loans. Arrangements will be completed to handle these loans as soon as the blanks are received from the district representative, W. H. Finley of Amarillo.

Mr. Black suggests that farmers study their needs for the coming year and talk over the loans with their bankers so that the applications may be completed promptly when the blanks are received. Information will be required along the same lines as given on the blanks of last year.

Mr. Black, T. C. Thompson and R. O. Allison are members of the Randall County committee, with W. H. Upchurch as advisor. It is planned that the Chamber of Commerce assist in making out the application blanks as last year.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

Marriage licenses were issued Jan. 14th to E. Overton and Miss Rhoda Tower.

Diamonds and Wedding Rings, E. Burroughs, Jeweler.

$600 Needed To Complete Museum Floor

$600 will be needed to put in the concrete floor of the Museum building. L. F. Sheffy states that the money is needed at once and is calling upon citizens who have not paid their subscriptions to do so at once, and those who have not paid anything on the building to make a donation so that the work may be completed.

It is estimated that the floor would cost fully $900 if put in at a later date. The contractors agree to do the work at cost; workmen are offering to make donations of their time; material men are making donations toward the work.

The floor had to be eliminated from the original contract of $50,000 made by the directors of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. To complete the floor now is the hope of Mr. Sheffy as the cost will be considerably less than at a later date.

Citizens are urged to see Mr. Sheffy and either pay on their donations, or make a donation if they have not previously done so.

Some Observations on the Biennial Report of the State Board of Education 1930-1932

The report of the State Board of Education recently received from the press concentrates its attention upon a complete reorganization of the state institutions of higher learning. The data gathered has been reduced to 12 tables with an Appendix B upon which it draws conclusions for its recommendations to the Governor which may be summarized as follows:

1. That there exist an excessive amount of duplication in courses of study being offered in state colleges.

2. That these courses of study should be eliminated from certain institutions and transferred to others to reduce cost of instruction, particularly as applied to technical and service courses.

3. That small classes ranging from 5 to 10 students are unjustifiably expensive and that to avoid the unnecessary cost, the board recommends the abolition of the senior college in five of the teachers colleges and the College of Arts and Industries.

4. That the teacher colleges and the College of Arts and Industries draw most of their patronage from a radius of 100 miles and for that reason it regards their services as strictly local and therefore recommends the abolition of the junior and senior years of these colleges, thus reducing them to junior colleges.

To anyone trained in the field of education and the organization of colleges and universities, the report impresses him with the absence of a discriminating insight into the practical operations of the internal machinery of administration. The report, while representative of a prodigious amount of labor is defective, because (1) it presents only one side of the picture, namely, the economic factor; and (2) it is replete with glaring inconsistencies. Hence, the recommendations of this board elicit several very interesting observations:

1. The economic factor is given primary consideration throughout the whole report. The logic of history plainly shows that all schemes of reform which are fundamentally established upon a money economy rather than upon human nature and a service economy are idealistic and Utopian in character. The recommendations of the board completely ignores the factor of service as the primary function of a higher institution and that this service is more effectively rendered when the institution is located where the folks live. The teacher colleges are being crowded with students because they are serving the areas in which they are located.

2. The board recommends that the students in the upper level of the colleges be transferred to a few state institutions for the completion of their college work. It operates upon the assumption that students terminate their courses at the end of the sophomore year without any over-lapping into the junior year and vice versa. Ideally, students should go through college within a straight-run of four years, terminating each academic year with the required credit hours for advancement into the succeeding year.

A quarter of a century ago this system worked almost faultlessly, for the colleges of arts and sciences drew their patronage largely from a social class sufficiently wealthy to finance its sons and daughters through college. Of course, there were students who worked their way through school, just as they do today, but they were comparatively few in number. The activities of such students created interesting news items for the campus paper.

Today the conditions are practically reversed. A majority must work their way through college. In view of this fact, particularly in teachers colleges, the average student must drop out of school at the end of a quarter or of a semester, teach for a year, attend summer school, out again perhaps several more quarters accumulating funds to continue his education and so on. Instead of the student's finishing his college work in four straight run academic years, as he did years ago, it usually takes him from five to ten years and sometimes longer to complete the work for a degree.

Evidently the board did not take into account the fact that from 40% to 60% of individual programs of junior college standing overlap courses offered in the senior college and vice versa, due to the fact that students become irregular in their classification for the reasons indicated above. Hence it is practically impossible to follow the ideal arrangement suggested by the board. If its program were put into operation, it would be only a matter of time before enrollment in the sophomore year would be materially reduced. In order to make a full time program, the student may find himself confronted with the practical proposition of transferring his credits to a senior college in which he could make a schedule, giving him full time work.

3. The board operates upon the assumption that the same number of upper level students will continue to flow from areas now served by senior colleges when these are converted into junior colleges. Ideally, the student should go on with his senior college work, but practically few of them will continue. The stimulation of upper class achievement is removed. What assurance has the board that the same flow of upper level students will continue after the senior college is abolished? They have no assurance whatsoever. As a matter of fact it doubtless conceived the notion that by concentrating the upper level of students in the teachers colleges at a few of the state colleges, it would reduce the number of students from these areas and thus "save the expense" of educating students beyond junior college standing.

4. The board conveniently omits giving data about attendance in terms of the 100 mile radius at the University of Texas, Sam Houston at Huntsville, and Texas Tech. When discussing the teacher college situations with the exception of Huntsville it repeatedly called attention to the high percentage of students attending school from within a radius of 50 miles and 100 miles respectively, and concluded that the senior college should be abolished because its patronage is largely local. If it were discovered that the University of Texas, Huntsville, and Texas Technological College drew most of their patronage in the undergraduate school from a radius of 50 and 100 miles, would the board have recommended the abolition of these schools for the same reason? It is interesting to note that no comments were made about radial attendance at either the University of Texas, Huntsville, or Texas Technological College when these were taken up for discussion. As a matter of fact the University of Texas, Huntsville, and Texas Technological College for the long session of 1930-31 drew 40.5%, 86.3%, and 58.2% respectively from within a radius of 100 miles, while Canyon drew 77% from within that radius. The board does not suggest that the senior college at Huntsville be abolished, but on the contrary, recommends its continu-

Mrs. E. E. Wesley Died Tuesday at Home Near Wayside

Mrs. E. E. Wesley died Tuesday at their home 35 miles southeast of Canyon near Wayside. The funeral services were held at the Baptist church in Canyon yesterday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. O. Scott of Happy. Interment followed at Dreamland Cemetery under the direction of the Griggs-Thompson Funeral Home.

Mrs. Wesley is survived by her husband and infant son; her father, J. A. Carr of this city; three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Charles, Lola May Carr and Mildred Lorene Carr; one brother, Jim Carr, Jr.

Mrs. Carr was born Jan. 23, 1915. She was a member of the Baptist Church at Happy.

New Contractors to Finish Highway to West of the City

Work was started yesterday by a new construction firm to complete the paving on highway No. 33, west from Canyon to the county line. The new firm, Coke & Broden, takes over the contract for the bonding company which was forced to complete the McClung contract. Jim Bell is superintendent of the new work.

New equipment has been moved here and it is expected that the highway will be completed without further delay.

No word has been received as to the time a contract will be let for the topping on No. 9 running from Canyon to Happy. The state accepted this work several weeks ago, but no steps have been made for the topping.

REPORT MADE BY EDUCATION GROUP DRASTIC

Follows Largely One Made by Economy Committee

W. T. WORK HIT

Board of Education In Annual Report to Legislature

Closely following the recommendations recently made by the Economy and Efficiency Committee, the State Board of Education on Saturday released its report to the legislature. J. O. Guleke of Amarillo was chairman of the committee which made the report, which hits at the teachers colleges of the state. Drastic curtailment of the scope of work in all teachers colleges, and transforming all but two into junior colleges is recommended. If the plan is followed out, all junior and senior work of W. T. would be transferred to Tech, which would be a liberal arts college, with a teacher training department.

The board recommended the consolidation of the two institutions at Denton, the College of Industrial Arts, and the North Texas State Teachers' College. This combined institution would be retained as a senior college. The other senior teachers college would be Sam Houston at Huntsville. Texas Tech at Lubbock would remain a senior institution, although its engineering and architecture departments would be abolished. The University of Texas and Texas A. and M. would continue as senior institutions.

As for the Southwest Teachers College at San Marcos, the board said in conclusion: "Another question which arises is whether the state can justify the maintenance of two institutions within 35 miles of each other." The board already had pointed out that San Marcos was only 33 miles from Austin, seat of the University of Texas.

Would Abandon Two Classes

The board recommended that graduate work be limited to the University of Texas and Texas A. & M. Senator Joe M. Moore of Greenville already has introduced a bill to carry out that purpose. The board advocated further that all work of high school level now being offered and given in any of the state colleges be discontinued. However, under agreements made by the state, sub-college work at John Tarleton Agricultural College at Stephenville must be continued.

The board suggested that Texas Tech could absorb the upper classmen of Sul Ross of Alpine and West Texas Teachers of Canyon with little additional expense. It added that the combined institution at Denton could take the upper classmen from East Texas Teachers of Commerce at only a slight additional cost.

Loan Companies Make Protest in Reducing W. T.

Loan companies of the Southwest have addressed letters to their representatives and agents advising them to protest the action to reducing a junior college the West Texas State Teachers College and other such institutions of Texas.

"It is a crime against civilization to discontinue our schools. There are certainly lots of things we can do without, but we cannot possibly afford to neglect the education of the coming generation and certainly these district schools make it possible for many young people to attend who could not possibly afford the expense of going to a university."

THE DALLAS NEWS IS WRONG.

The Dallas News, self-admitted to be the greatest of its kind in Texas, hops on to the little Canyon News, and proceeds to tell the Canyon sheet just how ignorant it is about school affairs. Having swallowed the report of the expert (?) from a small female college in New York as regards the colleges in Texas, the Dallas News now tries to defend its mistake by depreciating statements in defense of the Texas institutions. The Dallas News would have us believe that this so-called expert could come to the campus of an institution, spend six hours in examination, a majority of which time is devoted to bragging about his ability as a sanitary specialist of the Chick Sales type, go away and make radical recommendations abolishing some colleges, and reducing others in rank. The Dallas News believes that this so-called specialist should be followed as an authority in destroying in one stroke a system which it has taken fifty years to build. Furthermore, we ask the Dallas News if this expert is really such an authority, why he should have been dismissed from the little female college in which he was the only teacher in the department of education? If a New York man is competent enough to come to Texas to make a survey of the educational system of this state, does not the Dallas News believe that his services would be urgently sought by institutions in his own state? So much for the expert.

Now as to the recommendations of the so-called expert. This man disclaims belief in teacher training, and denies its importance by advocating that it may be done as an adjunct to a liberal arts college. The Dallas News makes the same mistake that teacher training be discontinued in Texas in institutions built especially for that purpose, which are under the direct supervision of the state and are carrying out the demands of the state. While crying out because there are too many so-called teachers in the state, the Dallas News refuses to make any attempt to remedy the existing evil of too many teachers by concentrating teacher training in institutions which are prepared and qualified to do this work, or by advocating a revision of Texas' out-of-date certificate laws. No one will deny there are too many people with certificates. But there is not a surplus of really qualified teachers in Texas. So long as the Dallas News is willing to have about 60 institutions in Texas continue to issue teachers certificates, with no consideration of their qualifications to train teachers, the oversupply will continue. The recommendation of this so-called expert will not solve the over-supply of teachers, and does not purport to do so. The tragedy of the report, so far as the school children are concerned, is that while the function of all state colleges would be changed thereby, teacher training would be shoved into the background, as the report provides that any institution in Texas which chooses to do so may continue to turn out students armed with teacher's certificates, yet without any specialized preparation for teaching. If the Dallas News wishes to do a real service to the children of this generation, and to the children of coming generations, it will demand that teacher training be limited to institutions which are equipped and prepared and manned for that purpose, just as it demands that the training for the law profession, practice of medicine and other professions be specialized. Furthermore, the Dallas News should keep in mind that the training of teachers is equipping young men and young women to return to the people of the state to render a great unselfish service, whereas men and women who enter the other professions do so with a selfish purpose of self-remuneration.

According to the Texas Almanac, published by the Dallas News, 5,000 new teachers are needed yearly in Texas, as compared with only a few men of other professions. There lies the necessity for more teacher training institutions than for other professional colleges in Texas.

The Dallas News makes another mistake in centering its attack on the teachers colleges, which are recognized as the colleges for the poor boys and girls of the state. The president of a denominational college only last week made tha statement that if all of the teachers colleges were abolished outright, it would not greatly benefit the denominational colleges, as a majority of the students in teachers colleges are poor boys and girls who could not go to a college with high tuition. Therefore, the Dallas News would say to the poor boys and girls of Texas that the chance for an education should be closed in their faces; that the educational system of Texas be organized so that the young men and women of the wealthy families be given an opportunity to attend college. Of course, the Dallas News would not dare to sponsor openly such a program of selectivity, based only upon wealth, but this program is absolutely what the recommendation of the so-called expert would lead to, and the Dallas News says that the expert is correct.

As a parting shot at the Canyon News, the Dallas editor refers to the situation here as merely local in nature. The Dallas writer did not know that the editor of the Canyon News made a public statement the day following the report from the New York specialist broke forth that "If the West Texas State Teachers College has not performed a public service, is not performing a public service, and could not perform a public service in the future that it should be closed regardless of the financial loss to any person or all persons in Canyon. The institution should not survive unless it is returning a profit to the state, and no member of the faculty should be retained unless he is performing a service which would return a profit to the state." Having served two terms in the House of Representatives, the News editor believes that he has caught the spirit of a state-wide program for education in Texas, even greater than that the great Dallas News has manifested upon many, many occasions, when its ideals have sparkled with pure partisanship and have been clearly sectional in nature. We refer the Dallas News to the oft-repeated statement of the Hon. J. O. Guleke of Amarillo, member of the State Board of Education, that the public schools of Northwest Texas have improved 300% as a result of the teacher training of the West Texas State Teachers College. We ask the Dallas News very frankly: What business man will junk a plant which is returning a 300% profit? How much greater service could the Dallas News expect of any institution than to return 300% profit to the state of Texas through the service it renders to the children of the state?

People out here on the Plains have always suspected that the Dallas News has been rather prejudiced against this section, and it therefore has taken no pains to correct any misrepresentation that that has been made through the report of the New York specallst. The grossest error made is that students of teacher training institutions do not teach. Records show that of the 877 graduates of the West Texas State Teachers College since the first degrees were granted in 1919, 64.8% are now teaching; 11.7% have taught three years or more; 18.3% have entered other professions; 3.5% are deceased or address unknown.

Another gross error in the report is the statement that the attendance is local in nature, and largely from New Mexico. Reports disclose that students come from 123 Texas counties, with only 6.37% from outside of Texas and of these only 3.8% from New Mexico. With all these gross errors, we do not wonder that since the Dallas News made no investigation, it swallowed the report as being authentic. However, we wonder that a great institution like the Dallas News should have been so gullible as to take the report as true without proper investigation.

The Dallas News overlooked the fact that the people of Canyon have contributed liberally to the support of the West Texas State Teachers College, more than any community in the state of Texas, which has a state college. The institution in 1909 was placed on the auction block and sold to Canyon as a location for the sum of $100,100 cash and 40 acres of land. Since that time the citizens have contributed $29,000 for the erection of a museum building, the only one in the state of Texas; $5,000 for a gymnasium; $16,036.69 for student loan funds; $6,000 for stadium and athletic field; $15,000 for other donations. Of course the sum of $171,136.69 given to the State of Texas by a small town may not be of importance to a great institution like the Dallas News, but the people of Canyon feel that the state has entered into a permanent contract when it located the West Texas State Teachers College at this city, and further by the fact that it continued to accept gifts from the people; and no one ever questioned the permanency of the location until the New York specialist came along and said that teacher training was not necessary, with a hearty amen from the Dallas News.

Another question as to equality which the Dallas News side-steps: The 26 counties of the Panhandle have 10% of the area of Texas; 5.8% of the taxable values of the state; pay 5.8% of the state's taxes, yet receive back only 3% of the money invested in higher education. Why should the people of this section of Texas be discriminated against as to educational advantages?

The Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., reporting on 140 Teachers Colleges of the U. S. for the decade 1920-1930 gives the increase in attendance at 71.5%. At the West Texas State Teachers College for the same period the increase was over 300%.

The 140 teachers colleges of the U. S. as reported by the U. S. Bureau of Education conferred, on an average, in 1930, 79 bachelor's degrees. The West Texas State Teachers College in the same year conferred 114 such degrees, and ranked 21st in the list, excluding colleges for negroes and private colleges.

With all of the above statement of facts, we feel that the West Texas State Teachers College has been grossly discriminated against in the report of the so-called expert, and that in the spirit of frankness the Dallas News should correct the statements which it has published which are not the truth, and which seek to do violence to the teacher training institutions of Texas.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORTS

Winning Three Big West Coast Tournaments, Craig Wood, Young New Jersey Pro, Shows He Is Going Somewhere in Golf World

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THE young fellow who's setting winter golf followers to "oh-ing" and "ahing" is a 31-year-old pro from Deal, N. J., who didn't start to play serious golf until he was 21.

That young man is Craig Wood, a tall, good-looking, blond-haired fellow who has the rest of the pros on the winter money circuit of the Pacific coast wondering when he'll let up and give them a chance to earn their daily bread.

The golf wizard from the east topped off his career as a money player by taking three of the coast's most remunerative matches and scaring the life out of the rest of the money players in a fourth. His first win came in the National Match Play Open at San Francisco. Then he entered and won the $4000 Pasadena Open, and followed with a four-stroke win of the $5000 Los Angeles Open. The climax came when he nearly won the $7500 Agua Caliente Open.

LIKE many great golfers, Wood started out as a caddie. He began carrying bags at the tender age of 13, and picked up a smattering of golf in this manner. It wasn't until after he reached his majority, however, that he took up golf professionally.

He became a pro at Winchester, Ky., and from there went to Louisville and Long Branch as a teacher.

His first thrill and big-time win came in 1928, when he topped the field in the Pasadena Open. From that time on he managed to finish on top in a few major tournaments, winning the Honolulu and Oklahoma Opens in 1930, and finishing in a tie with Johnny Golden in the 1932 North and South Open.

Here is Craig Wood, 31-year-old Deal, N. J., pro, who won the National Match Play Open, the $4000 Pasadena Open and the $5000 Los Angeles Open, then nearly copped the $7500 Agua Caliente Open.

Noted for his long and accurate driving in past years, Wood started off the present winter season with a greatly improved putting game. To this improvement he gives credit for his sensational rise. Where previously he had to rely on long drives and trust to luck for one-putt greens, he's now combining the long shots with frequent one-putters.

THAT he is a golfer who likes the going tough was witnessed during the recent Agua Caliente Open. Ray Mangrum, Texas youth, started out like a house afire to take the lead for the first 36 holes. Wood, during the first half, was quite a ways down the list.

But on the third round, he forged to the front to go into a tie with Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., for the lead. The final round saw him crack a little under the strain of four big tournaments and lose to Runyan.

Wood expects to be chosen a member of the United States Ryder Cup team when it goes to England to play Britain's best golfers this year.

In view of his winter performance, the Deal pro can't be left off the team. He deserves a chance to accompany Hagen, Diegel, Cox, Sarazen, Runyan, Shute, Al Espinosa and Olin Dutra in their trip across the waters. If he does he's bound to give those staid Britishers a brand of golf worth talking about.

Alexander the Great died from a pain in the neck. We didn't know they had radio crooners in those days.

The Bible tells us the world was made in six days. Yes, but in those days they didn't have to hold a conference.

Oklahoma Efficiency

From Castro County News:

Texas may well be proud of its system of handling the RFC relief work, especially when compared with that of some other States. For example, we take the neighboring state of Oklahoma, where the Governor, himself, is in active charge of the fund for the entire state.

Working with the Oklahoma governor, is a staff of clerks and experts, who in turn have under them a committee in each of the 77 counties. The supervisor in each county is paid a salary of $150 per month and up, and the grand total for administering the Oklahoma fund is from $12,000 to $15,000 monthly.

The cost for Texas, with a much larger allotment of funds and 254 counties, was only about $2,500 for the first months, and this has been cut considerably since the work got under way.

The Texas work is being carried on under the supervision of the Chambers of Commerce, and hundreds of towns are receiving some real constructive work, with the money going to those who are really in need.

This comparison merely proves the advantage Texas has over a one-man government.

The above editorial may well be termed another justification for the existence of Chambers of Commerce in times of distress and business depression. They function more efficiently and with much more speed than the clumsy organizations set up by governmental agencies.

Guthrie-Wallace

Sunday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Wallace, Rev. T. F. Robeson said the words which made the daughter of the home, Miss Edna, the wife of John Guthrie. Aside from the family Miss Caddo Gorman and Sam Marshall were the only ones present at the wedding.

Miss Edna is one of Canyon City's fairest and most loveable young ladies and her husband, John Guthrie, comes very near being the most popular man in town. As "central" everybody liked John and as "groceryman" and with the "Mercantile" he still maintains hold as a popular favorite. He and his wife have known each other always, the News may say, and beginning married life under these favorable conditions, and blessed with fine physical health, they ought to be happy thru its course and that such may be their lot is the sincere wish of many friends including The Canyon City News.

Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie are in their own home, the residence purchased by John Guthrie from Wade Stephenson.

At the Saturday meeting of the directors of the Canyon City Club, J. D. Gamble was elected president and R. A. Sowder, secretary.

Miss Emma Brandon, a mainstay of The News office, goes out next week to take a situation behind the counters with the Canyon Mercantile and Hardware Company.

Are You Hesitating About Buying The Things You Need And Can Really Afford To Buy?

Does Timidity or Fear of Criticism Keep You From Doing a Real Service to your Country and to the Unemployed?

It is true that many people have been hard hit by the depression and are struggling to make both ends meet. We all know it is difficult for them to make many purchases beyond the bare needs of existence.

There are many thousands of men and women, however, who are receiving a fair income and who could be of tremendous help in aiding the business revival. All you need to do is to buy the things you need and can actually afford.

That doesn't mean that you should buy extravagantly, wastefully, or recklessly. It simply means buying what you need when you need it in a normal, natural way.

Have you been hesitating about buying because of timidity or fear that you might be criticized? Exactly the reverse should be true.

You are doing a real service to the country, to the unemployed and to yourself when you purchase the things you need and can afford to buy. Every purchase that you make now—large or small—helps to create work and wages for those less fortunate than yourself.

When you buy a new dress or a new pair of shoes or a new radio or a new refrigerator or a new car you help to give work and wages to people in many sections of the country. When you have the house repainted, rooms repapered or the roof fixed you directly assist other deserving workmen—perhaps in your very neighborhood.

Nothing you could possibly do for those who need help could be more helpful or resultful than this. Sincere, honest, deserving people everywhere would rather have work than charity.

That's the big, broad humanitarian side of it. The other side is what it means to you personally to buy the things you need and can afford to purchase now. Never were such bargains available. Never were prices so low.

But price isn't everything. Today, as always, quality is the important thing to look for. It pays to buy standard, trademarked merchandise from firms you can depend on. You're almost always disappointed when you experiment with some unknown brand just because it is cheap.

From week to week in this newspaper are advertisements featuring many unusual values. Read them and take advantage of the opportunities they offer. Business revival will be speeded up if people will again buy the useful, necessary things they need and can afford to purchase.

Co-Ed Succeeds In Beating the Depression!

College students of today are so busy beating that 'ol Devil Depression they haven't time to worry about it, as witness the business acumen of Miss Corabelle Moore, freshman student in the West Texas State Teachers College, who is supporting herself and paying her college expenses through the sale of exquisitely worked, handmade quilts and tasty home canned foods.

Miss Moore, equally adept with the needle and the mixing spoon, has in her private show room both quilt tops and completed quilts, and home canned foods which include fruits, vegetables, and chicken. Miss Moore, whose home is now at Wayside with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Moore, is a graduate of the Seymour High School at Seymour, Texas, where she received one year's instruction in home economics and was an active member of the 4-H Girls' club. Her canned products more than measure up in quality and quantity to the standard of the 4-H marketing clubs.

Dr. Hill Speaks to P.T.A. on W.T. Proposed Amendment

Dr. J. A. Hill spoke to the Parent Teachers' Association of Canyon High School January 19th on the subject "The Present Educational Crisis."

President Hill stated that one of the Charges made against the college is that the college has only local support.

Princeton and Yale have 75% of their student body from within an area of 100 miles of their college. W. T. S. T. C. has students from 123 counties of Texas and 13 states. There are three colleges that receive more appropriations per student from the state than W. T. and eight receive less. The only reason is that we have had excellent representation at Austin. Yet we are below the standards set by the college world as to financial output.

Dr. Hill said that it was also charged that our college will always be small because it is not in a city. Yet there are only three denominational schools that are in cities that are larger than W. T. and these are T. C. U., S. M. U. and Baylor. In 1925 Tech was established but our statistics show that our enrollment has continued to increase since that time The year of 1924 W. T. had 723 students, in 1925, 717, in 1926, 775, in 1927, 915, in 1928, 865, in 1929, 870, in 1930 866 students and in 1931, 862 students. From 1920 to 1930 the college has gained 300% and the average college gained 71.5% the same period. Neither the freshman nor the sophomores have gained. There were only three seniors in 1919 but the year 1932 there were 160 graduates. This shows that our college has gained more than the average college.

He continued by saying that the average person who pays taxes on $10,000 worth of property contributes only 14c to W. T. and the man who pays taxes on $100,000 worth of property contributes only $1.40 to this college.

He said that they also charge that we advertise too much. We only advertise once a year in the Amarillo paper and that in the Tri-State Fair Edition, and once a month in The Texas Outlook.

Another charge, he stated, is that the graduates do not teach. At the present 64% of the graduates are teaching.

President Hill believes, he said, that every man that paid any money to the establishment of this college, when it was being built, would have the right to sue the state for their money and 23 years interest if the college should be changed from its present status.

Dr. Hill's talk was of great benefit to every mother and father that attended the meeting and inspired the group with the feeling that now is the time to get behind the college and boost it.

THE EAGLE'S TALE

VOLUME NO. 7 CANYON, TEXAS JANUARY 26, 1933. NUMBER 16

Eagle Sextet Wins Fast Game From Oklahoma Lane

In a clean, fast game, featuring the excellent goal shooting of the Canyon and Oklahoma Lane forwards, the Canyon girls defeated the visitors 24-23 in the local high school gymnasium last Saturday night.

Oklahoma Lane led 14-3 at the half, but due to their bad passing and the Eagles "can't miss" ability, they were soon overtaken. The last few minutes of the game were played on comparatively even terms. With only two minutes to play, the score stood 21-20 in favor of the Oklahoma Lane girls. Wanda Levy sank a beautiful backhand shot that gave them a three point margin. The Eagles got started and in less than a minute Velma Crawford had made two field goals that gave them a one point lead and a victory.

Velma Crawford led the scoring parade with seventeen points. W. Levy was second with ten points, while M. Schmitz and E. Foster tied for third place with five points each. Armor Lee Greenfield and M. Lee did outstanding work at their guard positions.

Supervisor's Column

The pupils of the elementary grades have settled down to work again after a period of semester examinations. While the semi-final grades were very gratifying on the whole there were, of course, a few failures.

Of all grades given only three and one half per cent were below the passing mark. We feel that this is a very small per cent; yet the teachers are more determined than ever to help raise their grades Teachers, in whose hands rest, to a large extent, the success or failure of the boys and girls, realize the expense of failures as well as the discouragement which children and parents suffer.

In order to help pupils to a better knowledge and appreciation of the work required of them this term, the teachers have carefully mapped out the work to be covered in each course. Then daily they plan to present this material in terms of children's purposes, give references as to supplementary material, use of devices based upon fundamental principals of teaching, use of equipment correlated work, and so forth. The same amount of work is not always required of the individuals of a class. Some work faster than others; hence we try to fill the needs of the individual pupil.

More important than all of our efforts to help a child make satisfactory grades is our effort to help establish proper attitudes and ideals; the attitude toward his work, toward the teacher, himself, his associates, and the ideals that may emerge as a result of these attitudes.

Those spending the week end out of town were: Sarah B. Bourn in Amarillo with her cousin; Miss Jordan in Tulia; Miss Foster in Hale Center; and Jack Oldham in Olton.

Oklahoma Lane Takes Thriller From Eagle Five

Playing ragged ball cost the Eagles quintet their "would have been" first victory of the season last Saturday night when they were nosed out by the Oklahoma Lane lads 22-21.

Frequent substitutions by Coach Barksdale made a slow game of the affair. The entire Eagle second team and the "would be" third team were substituted by Coach Barksdale early in the second quarter.

Joe Robinson, Oklahoma Lane center, was high point man with fourteen points to his credit. Joe Collins, substitute Eagle center, and Bill Sudderth, miniature forward of the Oklahoma Lane team, tied for second place scoring honors with six points each. F. A. Thomas, Eagle forward, played an outstanding game for the locals. F. A. scored five of the Eagles' twenty-one points.

The Canyon squad registered nine field goals, three free throws and eleven personal fouls. Oklahoma Lane scored five field goals, four free goals and seven personal fouls.

Joe Robinson, Oklahoma Lane center, received a sprained ankle late in the third quarter, when he and Joe Collins had a head-on collision under a goal.

Thomas relieved Robertson at his duty at center early in the fourth quarter.

YOU ARE YOUR OWN ADVERTISING MANAGER

When the school needs to advertise a basketball game, they call on the committee appointed for this purpose. The school asks everyone to "talk the game up" to outsiders.

Without realizing it, you are your own advertising manager and your friends form your committee.

Your very actions, speech and company advertises yourself. The school always appoints a committee that will co-operate with the manager; one that is known, that people will listen to. Does your own personal committee have these traits? Do you advertise yourself in the best way?

At school when certain people's names are mentioned, some students laugh. This person has advertised himself in a way that has brought this about. When others names are mentioned, some students pay the person a compliment. Evidently this person is a good advertising manager.

What you reflect or say about others also advertises you. This is one problem, how will you advertise yourself?

What has become of the old fashioned woman who looked upon marriage as a life sentence?

Virginia Minstrel Will Be Given On February 7

The "Old Virginia Minstrel," under the direction of Superintendent I. B. Carruth, will be presented in the auditorium of the Canyon High School, Feb. 7. The funds will be given to the library and athletic awards.

The characters have been selected. W. H. Stroud will play the part of Elliot; Lee Foster will be Barns; Dan Sanders, Deaves; Rev. L. R. Hudson, Coots; George Terry, Avery; J. B. Fowler, Flint; I. B. Carruth, Smith.

There will be a chorus composed of twenty-five girls. Their songs will be lively, snappy, and swinging. Mark Foster will dance.

The jokes are all new and free from smut. With these prominent citizens taking leading parts, a great show is expected. Lots of fun, amusement, and merriment is in store for everyone who will see this great minstrel.

Tickets will be on sale next week at drug stores. They wil be 25c and 35c

Student Council Called for Special Meeting Monday

A student council meeting was called Monday evening for the purpose of discussing the securing of song boods for the student body.

This question will be put before the student body and those wishing to buy a book will be asked to sign a pledge card. This pledge of twenty-five cents may be drawn from their library fund.

If each student buys his book it will be a great help as the students before have been using typewritten copies of songs.

Greater security and convenience for you

In January, 1754, George Washington returned to Williamsburg, Va., after bearing a message to the French forts near Lake Erie. He twice faced death; when fired upon by a treacherous Indian guide and when thrown into the icy waters of a river from a raft. The round trip required 78 days.

Today a message between these two points can be delivered in a few seconds. The telephone has performed an important service to all of us by speeding up communication. Reduced to simple terms, this means greater security, economy, convenience, leisure for each of us.

The better your service, the more valuable it is to you. Eternal vigilance and constant effort are necessary to insure you good telephone service. That is the responsibility of 23,000 men and women of the Southwestern Company. For 1933 they will endeavor to give you telephone service that is courteous, efficient, quick.

Matadors Smothered By Huge Scores, 66-30 And 42-17

Despite the flashy passing technique and vicious defensive displayed by the Texas Tech Matadors last week when they invaded Canyon territory, the Lubbock quintet was forced to bow two nights in succession to Coach "Sad Sam" Burton's towering hardwood artists.

On Friday night the Buffaloes outclassed the Matadors with a score of 66 to 30.

Saturday night's score was considerably below the mark set the previous evening. The Buffaloes having become aware of their superior strength Friday were less anxious to run up a high score in the second tilt of the series. The score was 42 to 17.

Fortenberry and Burk High

The second contest proved to be a much better game than did the Friday night affray. Otis Burk, who seemed to be considerably "off," came back in the second game to take honors as high point man. George Ray Colvin recuperated to make a box score of 8 points against Burk's 10 points.

Fortenberry fell below his first night's performance considerably. After making 19 points Friday night he was put on the "spot" by two of Tech's best guards, and as a result was seldom able to get in a scoring position.

The number of fouls were cut into half during the second engagement. This was due largely to the fact that the Buffs struck a defensive attitude and avoided the "hot spots" where fouling comes so easily.

There were 23 personal fouls Saturday evening as against 41 similar infractions Friday.

Prepare for Henrys

The Buffaloes got some valuable practice in defensive technique in the second game. Coach Burton realizes that they will need every art of defense at command when the Wichita Henrys, the National Amateur Champions, come to Canyon this week.

In the Friday night game the contest began with the Buffs hopping to a four-point lead. Tech then scored three to lag but one point in the first two minutes. From then on out the Matadors were helpless to do anything about the rising score of the Canyonites. The half ended 29 to 12.

Many Subs Used

The second half was played pretty largely by substitute players. The outstanding playing in this period was done by Guy Richards, substitute guard. Eleven Buffaloes were given a chance to play in the game, and ten of them added points to the winning score.

200 Young People At District Rally Methodist Church

Despite inclement weather on the first day, approximately 200 young people were in attendance at the meeting of the Amarillo District of the Methodist Young People in Canyon Saturday and Sunday.

The meeting convened at 8:30 Saturday evening with a worship service conducted by the Wesley Student Foundation of the local church. The service was entitled "Man at His Best" in which living pictures were presented.

Dr. J. T. McClure of the Polk Street Methodist Church of Amarillo gave the principal address of the evening. His address dealt with the prohibition problem. The remainder of the evening was devoted to the "Happy Hour," a social hour of games and contests.

Breakfast was served at 7 o'clock Sunday morning in the social hall by the Canyon members of the organization. The morning watch was led by Miss M. M. Richardson of the English department, and the Visitors Sunday School class was conducted by Miss Angie Debo.

The morning sermon was preached by Rev. C. W. Foote, pastor of the Methodist Church.

The young church workers who attended the meeting came from all parts of the Panhandle territory.

In Spring, Women Find Prints Charming

NOW IS TIME FOR MILADY TO ACQUIRE AT LEAST ONE COLORFUL COSTUME, TO FRESHEN UP HER WINTER WARDROBE

BY HARRIET

SPRING always means printed dresses, just as much as daffodils and robins, in the minds of most women.

Prints have a gaiety about them, a freshness and a colorful quality that makes them ideal for spring.

Right now is the time to acquire one printed costume, not only to freshen up your winter wardrobe and add color under your winter coat, but to have on hand when spring sails around the corner and meets you face to face.

The best spring things often have just touches of print. A dark suit enlivened with a printed blouse, printed collars and cuffs or vestees, or a jumper frock with gay flowered blouse might be what you would like most.

On the other hand, if you get a whole printed dress, it is just that much livelier.

New spring prints have a lot to commend them. Polka dots come in diamond shape and in scattered, graduated dots that are entrancing. And practically every woman has a polka dot complex. The woman hardly lives who doesn't always realize when she sees a blue and white polka dot that that's just the kind of dress she'd like.

For early spring wear and good right now under a winter coat is a one-piece dress with black wool voile skirt and black and white diamond dotted top. The cape-jacket of the black wool is sleeveless.

It is a neat, trim little model, with a very chic new wide-shouldered effect and a very charming neckline with the scarf tying in a bow-knot at the front. Worn with it, a jaunty little red hat adds its own note of gaiety and enlivens the outfit tremendously.

An early spring ensemble which may be worn now is the one-piece dress with black wool voile skirt and black-and-white diamond print top, shown at left. The cape-jacket is of black wool voile, and the new tricorne hat of wool crepe with a straw surface. At right, a print over-blouse provides a contrast to the black and white print of the dress. The over-blouse is of a red print with clover design developed in black, white and gray.

ANOTHER black and white print, conservative in design, stunning in effect, is one in all-over design so formalized that you'll never tire of it.

It is simply made, with fitted and flaring skirt, long tight sleeves, and then a charming over-bodice of gay clover-designed red, black, white and gray coloring, of the same crepe as the dress. This latter is a new treatment to add color and charm to a costume. You can wear the dress without the over-bodice but it isn't the same for this ties on the side and has its sash ends for skirt decoration and a bow on the shoulder which gives a soft appearance to the whole costume.

Some of the other new printed things for spring use flowered silks for the sleeves and collar; others have pipings of colorful print for all the seams on the waist and sleeves and then cuffs and collar of the print itself. One has a cute printed pleating ruffle all around the bottom, with high, puffed sleeves, a turn-down collar and tie of the same print; and the rest of the dress a navy blue plain crepe.

Whether you want a whole printed frock or not, now is the time to add printed touches to old costumes to give them new value in your wardrobe.

MRS. GREEN TALKS PEN WOMEN'S CLUB AT HERRING HOTEL

Tuesday afternoon, January 17, Mrs. Geraldine Green addressed the Panhandle Pen Women's Club, at the Herring Hotel in Amarillo, in which she answered questions raised by the Legislative report on efficiency and organization.

Mrs. Green answered such question as: That the West Texas State Teachers College is not growing, that the graduates of Teachers Colleges do not teach, that the West Texas State Teachers College is making no effort toward economy, and that higher education is too great a burden on the Texas taxpayer.

Mrs. Green also suggested three ways that would help W. T. S. T. C. in this crisis.

First, write state senators and state representatives, expressing views on the proposed change in the West Texas State Teachers College, or upon the proposed reorganization of higher education in Texas. Second, write newspapers your views on the subject. And third, to help those who are not informed to realize the commercial and cultural value of colleges to the region in which they are located, and help them to learn how little is spent for education in Texas in comparison with other states and with expenditures which are not essential.

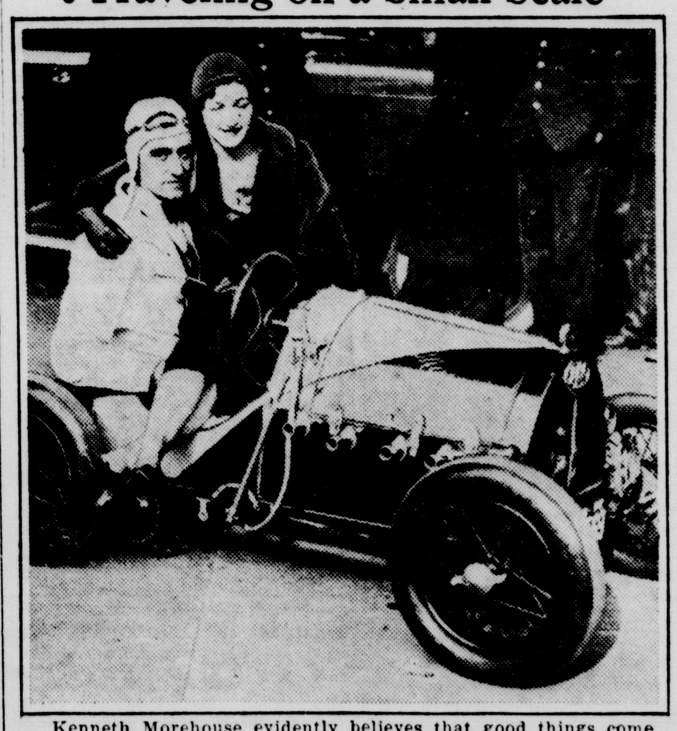
Traveling on a Small Scale



Kenneth Morehouse evidently believes that good things come in small packages. He and his petite bride, the former Anna Lee Hershey, are on a honeymoon trip in their tiny car, "The Little Mystery," believed to be the world's smallest auto. It is only 52 inches long, but can reach a speed of 130 miles an hour, believed to be a world's record for cars of less than 1000 pounds weight.

Observations

ation. We are not suggesting that the upper levels in these schools be abolished because they happen to draw a large volume of their patronage from a radius of 100 miles, but by what logic should the upper levels of the teachers colleges be abolished if the same principle be not applied to the more powerful institutions?

The board also recommends the abolition of the upper level at the West Texas State Teachers College, on the ground that it overlaps the territory of Tech, yet A. & M. College is closer to the University of Texas than the Canyon College is to Tech, and Huntsville is less than half such distance from A. & M., and only 130 miles from the University of Texas. According to this argument the upper levels at A. & M. and Huntsville should be transferred to the University of Texas. Such inconsistencies as these on the part of the board's report cause us to raise questions either of sincerity or of inadequate understanding of the function of higher education.

5. The major portion of the board's survey deals with the small class problem. It laments the existence of too many small classes (5 to 10 students) in all the colleges with the exceptions of the University of Texas and A. & M. College and Huntsville. One wonders why comments on this subject were omitted about these institutions.

The board failed to recognize the fact that small classes in the upper level is just a reflection of a minute division of labor occurring in an expanding social order. A comparison of the catalogues of any university published 25 years ago with those of today will reveal that courses have been multiplied in keeping with social needs. The addition of new courses naturally make for small classes in some departments. This suggests that in a growing society the so-called small class menace will be an ever present problem.

If we concentrate students in the upper class level in a few colleges, what assurance have we that within a few years this same "evil" will not reappear within these institutions? The board's recommendations would work splendidly if society remained stationary. In a changing society, however, small classes are inevitably present. Take the larger universities with enrolments from 10,000 to 20,000, are they operating without small classes? Our experience compels us to answer that question in the negative.

If we follow the board's recommendation to its logical conclusions in order to avoid the "evils" of small classes, it will be necessary to reorganize our schools every few years by a continued process of concentration. Finally, we would have only one school left to absorb the small classes of all the other schools. But small classes will again show up in this one school, then what must we do in order to save expenses and reduce overhead? Probably, the State of Texas will be forced to enter into an agreement with her neighboring states and create a regional university to absorb the small classes of the state universities. And we might go a step further and suggest a National University to absorb all the small classes that will inevitably arise in all the regional universities!

Why is it that the State Board of Education, which finds small classes so objectionable in the less powerful institutions, has no adverse criticism to offer regarding the 379 classes at Texas University having 10 or fewer students, or regarding the 291 classes at A. & M. having less than ten members. Are small classes less objectionable in politically powerful institutions? We raise this question because if a criterion for economy is going to be applied to teachers colleges, the same measuring rod should be used for the University.

It seems the board is attempting to force a condition leading toward concentration when the natural tendency in educational history has been in just the opposite direction, namely, a decentralization of college facilities. When it comes to manufacturing goods, the principle of concentration operates effectively because it is based strictly upon money economies, but when we are confronted with the problem of educating people, we must carry the school to them because it has for its objective the rendering of a service, the function for which wealth exists. The people do not exist for wealth but wealth exists for the people to be used for their advancement.

We might raise children cheaper by concentrating them in camps. Here clothing, food, medicine, and shelter can be bought at wholesale, and operating under a reduced overhead expense, millions of dollars could be saved to the parrents. From a Utopian point of view, no one should object to this scheme, but it violates every principle of human nature. When we make a money economy rather than a service economy, the end of our activities, we have lost the fundamental meaning of life.

Report Made

In similar manner, Sam Houston Teachers College could absorb the juniors and seniors from Stephen F. Austin at Nacogdoches. "There need be very little discussion about the possibility of the University of Texas absorbing students in upper classes" from Southwest Teachers and from the College of Arts and Industries at Kingsville, the board said.

Tuition Recommended

"The Texas A. and M. college can, with little, if any, additional cost absorb those upper level students coming to it because of the concentration of certain special offerings at fewer institutions. This is particularly true in the fields of agriculture and engineering."

In support of its contention that there should be only five senior state colleges in Texas, the board pointed to the expense of maintaining small classes for juniors and seniors in the other institutions.

The board suggested that each Texas student at any of the state colleges be charged a fee of $25 a semester and that an out-of-state student be assessed $50 a semester.

UNUSUAL ATTENDANCE AT LOCAL CHURCH

Sunday, January 22, was an unusual day at First Methodist Church at Canyon. Great congregations were present both morning and evening. There were 462 present at Sunday School. The house was reasonably well filled at the morning service and every seat was taken at the evening hour.

Rev. C. W. Foote, pastor of the church is making special effort to build a great Sunday evening congregation. He is calling upon all the Methodist people and urging that they come to these services. He is asking all the organizations of the church to function in coming and seeing that others attend. He has called to his aid some help from the College and has some interesting ways of introducing his messages at the evening hour. Last Sunday evening the message, which was on the "Lost Sheep," was introduced by illustrated pictures from the Shepherd Psalm, and from the song entitled, "The Ninety and Nine." It was very effective and invoked generous response. Many went away resolved to live a better life and to renew their covenant with the church and with the Lord.

The young people of the church, led by Miss Swisher, are helping Rev. Foote to build this great Sunday evening congregation. Many interesting features will be introduced as the weeks come and go. Every Methodist, with an ounce of loyalty, is asked to help in this great movement. We may not have much money, but we can give what we have, ourselves. You are asked to see and enjoy the service next Sunday evening. There is a welcome for all. Secretary.

Court Session Is Ended for Term—Grand Jury Reports

The regular term of the district court came to a close Saturday night, but recessed until February 9th for the purpose of setting the case of Lena Platt vs. G. G. Foster. This case has been on the docket for nearly two years, but could not be tried at this session owing to the absence of an attorney.

The grand jury was in session Thursday, closing its investigation for the term. Four indictments were returned Thursday, three of which were against Henry Campbell, charged with forgery. Arrest has not been made in the other case.

The grand jury was in session for six days, returning 8 true bills and 9 no-bills in the 20 cases investigated. Fifty witnesses were examined by the grand jury.

In the case Mrs. D. H. Hamlin vs. Panhandle Santa Fe, the jury was unable to agree and was dismissed. Mrs. Hamblen brought suit against the railroad on account of the death of her husband at a railroad crossing south of Amarillo on May 13th.

In the case O. C. Wetmore vs. S. C. Taliaferro, judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff.

Owing to the fact that J. B. Crabb is now serving a penitentiary sentence from Dallam county, the case pending against him was dismissed.

In the case of State of Texas vs. Edgar Thomas, the bond of $2,000 was forfeited by Judge Bishop for non-appearance of the defendant.

The case of J. B. Lipe vs. J. M. Redfearn was dismissed.

Geo. F. L. Bishop, W. C. Black, and Clyde W. Warwick were appointed as a jury commission, and selected grand jurors and petit jurors for the August term of court.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Harrell of Claude spent the week end here visiting relatives.

A. A. U. W. Files Protest Against Hurting Colleges

The Canyon branch of the American Association of University Women has joined eleven other branches of the same organization in protesting the proposed reorganization of higher education in Texas.

There are 27 branches of this organization and more than one half of the state membership has already communicated with members of the Legislature to express their sentiments regarding the committee's report.

News has come to the local chapter, which has 35 members, that the chapters at Waco, San Marcos, Kingsville, Amarillo, Huntsville, San Antonio, Pampa, Mission, Nacogdoches, Denton, and Commerce, with a combined membership of more than 575, have expressed themselves against a policy which would lessen the educational opportunities of the young people of Texas.

The following resolutions are typical of those used throughout the state. These were addressed to senators, representatives, and other persons selected by the individual branches.

"Whereas, according to a press dispatch from Austin dated December 3, the joint legislative committee on Organizaation and Economy has recommended the withdrawal of state support from several teacher training institutions or their reduction to junior rank, and the curtailment of the services of certain other state colleges; and

"Whereas, the American Association of University Women is actively interested in the promotion of higher education; and

"Whereas, the common people of the United States established a system of public education only after a long and bitter fight against a privileged aristocracy; and

"Whereas, public education is again under attack by predatory special interests, which in this time of economic suffering are attempting to trick the people into surrendering their own institutions by appealing to their desire to escape taxation; and

"Whereas, state support of higher education is the only guarantee of equal rights to all the children of all the people, and the only guarantee that the state shall not be deprived of its potential leadership in high and low places alike; and

"Whereas, the accessibility to state colleges has created a general appreciation of cultural values, and has furnished an incentive to the youth of each section to seek higher education for themselves; and

"Whereas, the development of science of teacher training thruout the country, and particularly in Texas, has challenged the respect of educational leaders—as evidenced by the favorable recognition of teachers' colleges; and

"Whereas, these recent achievements are bringing dignity, efficiency, and wholesome self-respect into the profession of teaching, with a resulting benefit to the children of the state; and

"Whereas, any plan to economize that endangers the development of our future citizenship, and that fails to protect society from ignorance and its attendant evils, and that sacrifices our democratic ideal of a fair distribution of the values of life to all citizens, results in dangerous waste instead of economy; therefore

"Be It Resolved, that we, the members of the Texas Branches of the American Association of University Women, protest against a policy that would reduce the educational opportunity of the citizens of the state, and we respectfully appeal to the good judgment of our legislators to protect our institutions from hasty and unconsidered action."
